

Always know what to watch next.

A personal TV-show tracker for iPhone & iPad. It remembers exactly where you left off in every series, tells you the moment something new airs, and turns your watch history into stats worth bragging about.

- Native SwiftUI
- Powered by TMDB
- TV Time import
- iOS 26

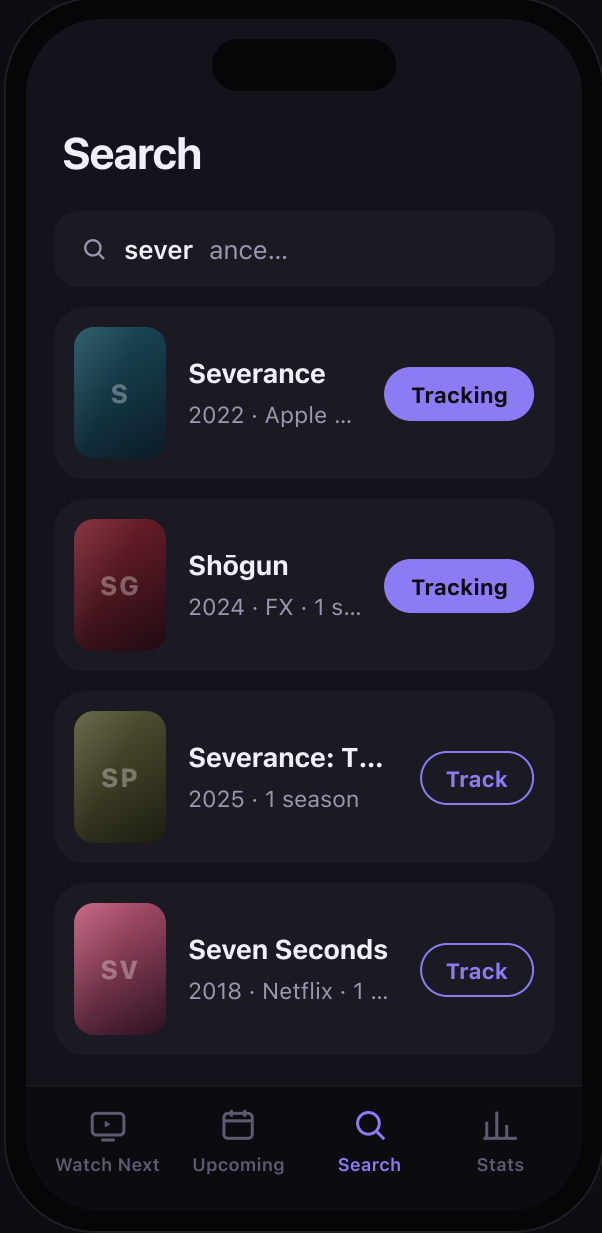

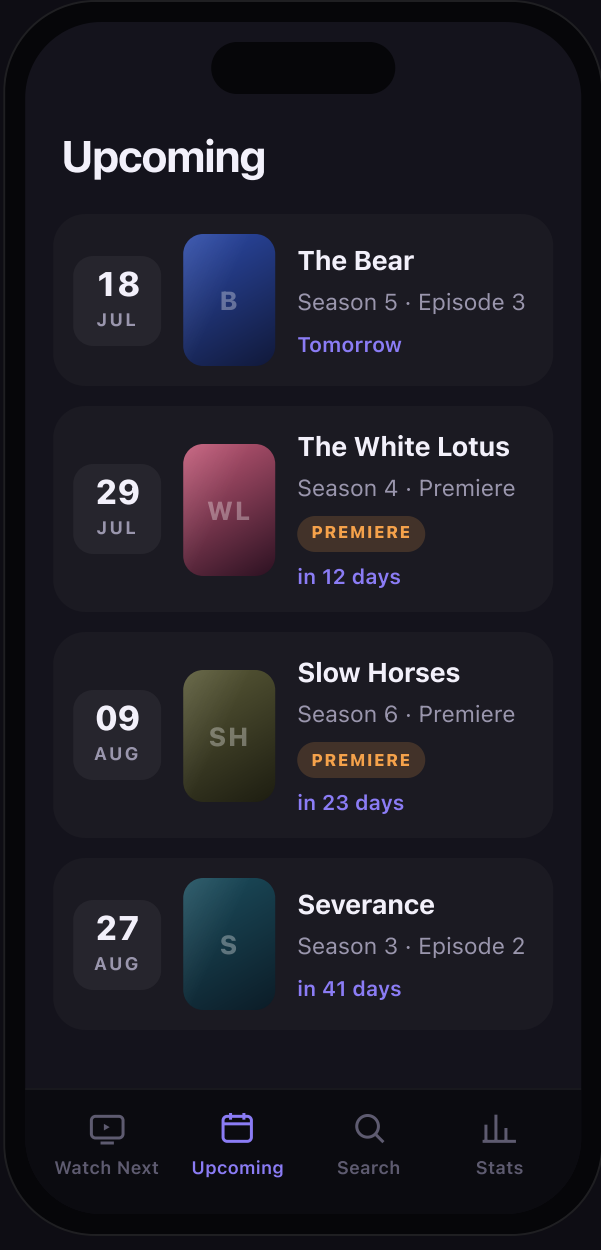

UPCOMING

Release dates, before your group chat knows.

Every show you track feeds one clean timeline of what's airing next — pulled live from TMDB, sorted by date, with season premieres called out so the big returns never sneak past you.

- "Today", "Tomorrow", "in 12 days" — relative dates you can read at a glance
- Poster art and calendar-style date blocks for instant scanning
- Premieres vs. regular episodes, clearly distinguished

SEARCH & TRACK

Any show on Earth, two taps away.

Search the full TMDB catalog as you type, then tap Track to follow a show. Drill into any series for the backdrop hero, season list, and per-season progress — and mark whole episodes watched right from the episode list.

- Live search with instant poster results
- Season-by-season progress bars on every show page
- Toggle any episode watched or unwatched with one tap

STATS

Your watch history, quantified.

Every episode you mark watched becomes data: total watch time broken into months, days and hours, a 12-month activity chart, and a full history of everything you've seen.

- Watch-time counter that treats bingeing as an achievement
- Monthly activity bar chart, built with Swift Charts
- Complete, scrollable watch-event history

BRING YOUR HISTORY WITH YOU

Years of watch history, imported in one tap.

TV Time import

Drop in your TV Time export ZIP and the app does the rest — parses your records, matches every show to TMDB, and skips anything already logged. Thousands of episodes, zero duplicates.

Calendar reminders

Tap "Notify Me" on any upcoming episode and it lands in your Google Calendar — so the night it airs, your phone already knows what you're doing.

Stop scrolling. Start watching.

Kami Sam Watches keeps every show, every episode, and every air date in one fast, native app — so the only decision left is the couch or the bed.

Track your first show